

Experience

Wednesday, 01 June 2011 07:09

I have nearly 15 years of experience in treating mental health, addictive disorders, as well as couples and family problems, practicing both in outpatient clinics in New York City where I work with both English and Polish speaking clients and their families. I currently work as a psychotherapist for the Mental Health Department of the St. Mark's Place Institute for Mental Health in New York City. Along with clinical work I provide clinical supervision for post-graduate interns.